

Alexandria, VA

V(08:15)
V(14:15)

Dec. 16, 1811

Concord Gazette
Jan. 07, 1812

On Monday morning last two shocks of an earthquake were sensibly felt in this town, the first between 2 and 3 o'clock, the latter about 8.

There appeared to be but one shock each time, and its undulations, might have continued 30 seconds - It had force enough to shake the furniture in houses, and we have heard of some instances of clocks being stopped by throwing their pendulums out of their course of vibrations.